

Join us as a Sustainability Manager at Unitaid!

Are you passionate or feeling concerned about health and climate? This job may be for you. At Unitaid, we're building a Climate and Health team and looking for a Sustainability Manager to spearhead innovative strategies that make our health products more climate-smart.

What you'll do:

- Conduct strategic analyses to identify opportunities for climate mitigation and adaptation in health product value chains.
- Lead the design and implementation of impactful investments for greener health solutions.
- Collaborate across teams to ensure sustainability is integrated into our grant management processes.
- Engage with partners and stakeholders to drive synergy and collective impact.

What you bring:

- 7+ years of experience in environmental sustainability, climate mitigation, or related fields, along with working knowledge of global health.
- Strong analytical skills and experience addressing environmental sustainability issues and solutions, particularly those tied to climate change.
- A good understanding of health products (they are central to Unitaid's work in introducing innovations and shaping global health markets).
- Excellent communication and interpersonal skills to influence and collaborate effectively.
- A good dose of energy, self-motivation, and a team-oriented, learning mindset!

Why join us?

At Unitaid, you'll be at the forefront of integrating sustainability into global health, minimizing environmental impacts, and enhancing resilience in health systems. You'll be part of a fast-moving, dynamic, and enjoyable team where science-based approaches and access to lifesaving health innovation are mission-critical.
